Rescue Squad Week, 1972

Thousands of volunteers give their time and services, at considerable personal sacrifice, to aid in the work of our rescue squads. Many lives have been saved and many tragedies avoided by their unselfish dedication.

In tribute to the men and women who man our volunteer rescue squads throughout the Commonwealth, the week of May 21-28, 1972 has been designated RESCUE SQUAD WEEK. I call upon all Virginians to observe this occasion by remembering that the sole support of our rescue squads is derived from voluntary contributions.

Mr. Booth has consented to give technical advise.

Harld T. Nash, Supt. of Public Utilities requested the board consider the resurfacing of certain streets within the town limits. The streets under advisement are Patricia Ann Lane, from Lucy Street to Hwy. 635, Martha Street, from Lucy Street to Annie Street; Church Street, from U. S. 460 to Patricia Ann Lane; Lee Street, from Highland Street to Main Street; also Court Street, from Railroad to Church Street.

J. T. Guill, of Guill's Restaurant, Church Street, appeared before the council to request permission to open his establishment for the sale of beer on Sunday's from 12:00 noon until 6:00 p.m.

Guill stated that recently his business was down and he felt it was the move of the drug store from the center of town, plus the fact that the bank closed on Saturdays now. He asked for the licence addition to help augment his business.

After much deliberation the board denied the request. Mayor Pack stated he questioned the legality of the town overruling the county ruling on this matter. Many pros and cons were discussed before the council voted unanimously against the request.

Jim Beamer requested the council for estimated costs and permission to connect to existing water and sewage hook ups on Route 24. The board stated it could be done with the stipulation that it is done to the town's specifications.

Mayor Pack announced that he had proclaimed Friday, May 19 as Appomattox Poppy Day, stating poppies would be sold in Appomattox on that day and also on Saturday, May 20.

In other action the council voted to have the new radio system installed in the new fire truck and appointed Councilman Webb to meet with the County Board of Supervisors and other interested parties to set up a joint radio system.

The purchase of a tape recorder was approved to assist the Mayor in his dual role as Mayor and his temporary town managerial duties.

On the request of the water and sewage committee the council voted to have the town water tank, located on Patricia Ann Lane, repaired and painted. This tank must be painted and repaired each four years. The last time was March 8, 1968. The council voted to have Dominion Tank and Iron Co., Inc. of Petersburg again do the job. The tank in question is a 10,000 gallon storage tank for the town of Appomattox

The insurance on the town ball park was renewed and a bill of $145 was paid for the repair of a broken switch and a number of lights at the ballfield.

T. E. Pittman, resident engineer of the Va. Highway Department requested the council present in writing their previously oral approval of the improvement plans for Court Street. These plans were submitted earlier at a public hearing in Appomattox. The written resolution must be presented before the Highway Department in Richmond for final authority.

Also, at Monday night's meeting, Mrs. Bobby Mullens was appointed by the council as clerk - secretary. Previously minutes of the meeting were recorded by Town Manager C. S. Booth.

Councilman Hubbard asked if anything had been done concerning the sidewalk that was to be installed on High Street. The mayor stated he would check with the highway department again on that,

HOW TO BE HAPPY

Most of us would agree with John Stuart Mill when he said, "I would rather be a dissatisfied man than a satisfied pig." In either case we cannot jump out of our skin and become something else. We must try to become satisfied persons. The Psalmist (Psalm 55:6-8) expressed a mood perhaps many of us have had at one time or another: "Oh that I had the wings of a dove! For then I would fly away . . . I would hasten to escape the windy storm and tempest." But it is a pity to feel that way about life. There is no place where a person may go to escape the problems of living.

A man must learn how to live. Our Declaration of Independence states that it is our "unalienable right to liberty, life and pursuit of happiness." But very few people pursue happiness in an intelligent manner. Happiness is not something we can grasp but is an inner spirit. Do you want to be truly happy? Here are a few suggestions.

Remember: Life is like a river that flows on endlessly. It moves. Our world moves. Time change. Our ideas change. Everything changes except God and the Changeless God is directing our life. We must learn to change stumbling blocks into stepping stones. If we can learn to adjust in life then we have little to fear. Many tall trees bend with the wind but do not break. Remember: "All things work together for good to them who love God."

(2) Live for the eternal.

We must tie our short lives to eternal things. When we tie our lives to temporal things we lose. Many homes are made unhappy by petty arguments over money than any other cause. We must learn to put first things first. The material things of life make us unhappy; the spiritual things of life make us happy.

(3) Try making others happy.

Our world is made up of two classes of people – leaners and lifters. Those who set themselves to lifting the burdens find happiness. The leaners in life spend their time in complaining. The leaners sometimes go to church, the lifters bring someone to church with them. The leaners growl about life. The lifters praise God for His goodness.

Are you serious about wanting to be happy? Are you willing to give yourself to be happy? The Christian way is the only way. God wants your life to be happy, not heavy, peaceful instead of panicky, humble instead of haughty. Let the joy of Christ flood your life with happiness.

THE BIBLE SPEAKS

BY LAWRENCE W. ALTHOUSE

TEACH NOW, REAP LATER

Lesson for May 21, 1972

Background Scripture: Matthew 28:9, 20; I Timothy 4:6-16; II Timothy 2:1, 2
Devotional Reading: II Timothy 3:14 through 4:2

A man condemned to die in the electric chair approached his last minutes on earth with a crowd of newspaper reporters, photographers, and officials. Did he have any final statement to make? Looking at the throng surrounding him, he said: "If I had been shown so much attention when I was a boy, I would not be here today!"

One cannot help wondering how many men and women like him might have had a different life had they encountered more attention and concern at an earlier stage of life. The churches have a great commission to "teach" all men everywhere, but too many congregations respond to that command only when people seek out the church and even they may fail to do so.

"Teach These Things . . ."

Whenever we perform a baptism in our church, the congregation is asked to promise to "accept the responsibility of assisting these parents in fulfillment of the baptismal vows, and . . . undertake to provide facilities and opportunities for Christian nurture and fellowship. . . ." Something of this sort is probably asked for in most rituals of baptism. Yet, how seriously do we take that charge?

After a hard day's work, a mechanic was observed playing baseball with his son. "Bill, aren't you tired?" asked his friend. "Sure, I'm tired," the mechanic answered, "well, what are you doing that for?" his friend asked, "Oh," sighed the mechanic, "I'd rather have a backache now than a heartache later on."

Perhaps too many of us settle for the "heartache later on." Teaching the Christian faith often seems "too much trouble" to many of us. If our church has a church school program it may only be because a few dedicated people are willing to carry on week after week a thankless task. Choirs are feted at banquets, trustees and deacons are honored, and finance committee members wield great power, but church school teachers are almost anonymous in many churches.

Entrust To Faithful Men

The writer of II Timothy stressed the importance of the teaching ministry: ". . . what you have heard from me before many witnesses entrust to faithful men who will be able to teach others also" (2:2). Today, it would seem appropriate to change "faithful men" to "faithful women." In many churches, Christian women serve as a women's society, but as an organization for the purpose of study about the Christian faith and the relevance of that faith to our own experience.

Many of us would acknowledge the importance of "teach these things," but the difficult as this task is, the fruits we will reap for Christ and the Church are innumerable.
